

Our Morning

With only 6 Zebras joining us this morning, this was a great opportunity for the children to build friendships with their peers. The children had a fun morning role playing in the home corner area, they demonstrated compassion and empathy as they took care of the baby dolls. Alice and Yuna had a great time feeding their babies whilst Edison was trying to put his baby to sleep. "Shh" said Edison as he began to pat his baby to sleep.

Our Flower Experiment and Planting Seeds

A fun and exciting activity to discover colour is to do some science mixed with a little bit of gardening. I bought some white flowers yesterday and asked the children to help me fill a clear cup with different coloured water. The children then placed one white flower in each of the coloured water and over time the flower will seep the coloured water up the long stem and finally into the petals of the flower. The children will see the change of the flower all week with the flowers being on the top of the lockers for you and your children to see the difference. The children and I also did some planting with the seedlings from Woolworths. Han Han and Edison helped to tip the dirt into the pot plant then pressed the seeds into the dirt. The children will give the plants a little water each day to help the plants grow and become big. If you shop at Woolworths and are happy to donate the seedlings to the Zebra room please see either me (Miss Liz), Hayley or Tayla.

Our Sensory Box and Playdough

The Zebras were very excited as they rushed over to see what Miss Tayla had placed on the table. They found a container filled with lots of orange and blue coloured rice along with some other things such as cut up straws, green pom poms and some cupcake cases. They quickly sat down and began running their hand through the rice to see what they could find. "Look Yuna!" said Alice as she showed Yuna a cupcake case filled with rice that she was holding. "What colours can you see?" asked Miss Tayla.

The children replied back with "Blue" and "Red".

Miss Liz also brought in some playdough for the children to discover and explore. They sat patiently at the table waiting for some rolling pins and cookie cutters, they then began rolling out the playdough into a nice flat circle and cutting out their shapes. Edison was very excited to share with his friends the truck that he cut out with no assistance. These activities are a great opportunity for the children to build on their fine motor skills as well as recognising what colours they can find, we plan to include these types of activities more often.

Our Colour Mixing Art

Today we had fun engaging in the colour mixing art experience with Miss Liz. The children got to experiment with the yellow and blue paint to see what colour it would be once they were mixed. "Look it made the colour green" said Alice as she mixed the yellow and blue together. This experience was a great way for the children to learn about their colour recognition and mixing colours.
