Our daily adventures in the Giraffe room with Miss Emily and Miss Jane

Good afternoon Giraffe families, we hope you had a lovely weekend and you're refreshed for this week. During group time this morning, we reminded the children about "whole body listening." Listening with your whole body involves integrating all of the body senses (sensory processing), and combining that with executive functioning (self-control of brain and body), and perspective taking (thinking of others and what they are saying). The group is really getting the hang of this concept and are able to recall what each body part should be doing during "whole body listening." We then read a book that the children requested called "The little race car" then sang a song called "highway #1" to follow up and get everybody involved and engaged in the lesson.

QKLG. 1.1.1.1 feeling safe, accepted and supported

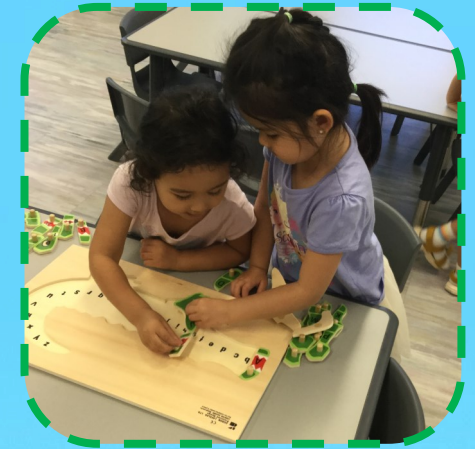

This week we are focusing on different techniques of painting and creating artwork as the children have been so interested in the styles of art we have been doing lately. Today we used our fingers to flick the paint onto our page instead of the traditional way of touch in the brush to the page. On the art easel each child had their own supply of paint, brushes and colours to make an apple tree or a jacaranda tree.

QKLG. 4.1.3.2 Exploring the arts in different ways to represent ideas

QKLG. 3.3.1.2 Developing problem solving skills

Today the children had lots of opportunities to work in small groups. We always encourage the children to develop social skills by working in partnerships, communicating their thoughts and feelings and sharing ideas in a positive and productive way. While educators are always close by to help guide behaviours the children are prompted to think for themselves to solve problems. Small friendships and bonds are forming in the class and it's lovely to see the children feeling valued and loved by their peers.

Here's some extra photos from our day
